Total precipitation for Dec.-
5.93"-wettest since 1901-
third wettest on record.

Wetter Weather Marked December 1967

The snow on New Year's eve pushed December's precipitation total to almost six inches, making it the wettest December since 1901 and the third wettest in Weather Bureau history here.

The official total was 5.93 inches, bettered only by 7.56 inches in 1901 and 6.12 inches in 1881. The Weather Bureau began keeping records in 1871.

Normal for December is 2.78 inches, one of the drier months of the year.

Weatherman said a total of 38.15 inches of preciptitation fell during 1967, slightly below the normal of 40.78 inches.
